IPB ICM history and impact. Global models for double diploma and research cooperation.

Tuesday, July 18th, 10:00, IPB Central Services

An overview of the IPB double diploma international platform within the Erasmus International Credit Mobility (ICM) action: the partners, the degree programmes, the fluxes. WHY double diploma? Impact for students, teachers, researchers and institutions. And HOW? The foundations of the Bologna spirit: transparent, improved and strategic recognition of credits and competences. Flexible global models for double diploma involving bachelor and master programmes.

Research cooperation and opportunities – a workshop with IPB R&D units.

Wednesday, July 19th, 14:30

The IPB ICM project and the double diploma international platform is an important opportunity for research cooperation and funding. Coordinators of the IPB R&D units will meet ICM partners' representatives, according to their profiles ("Group"). The workshop will identify common and complementary interests and competencies and how the ICM double diploma student mobility, as well as future ICM staff/research mobility, can be used to promote joint R&D activities and new opportunities for funding.

Double diploma mobility – a workshop with course directors and head of departments.

Thursday, July 20th, 10:00

IPB course directors and head of departments will meet ICM partners' representatives, according to their profiles ("Group"). IPB course directors will present the study plans of the bachelor and master programmes used in double diploma student mobility. IPB head of departments will present the interests and competences of teachers. The workshop will address the double diploma models with ICM partners and the co-supervision of students' master dissertations.
